Hello to the employees of the Department of JUSTICE,

When I got the news that Microsoft was found to be a monopoly, I felt such a relief. I said to myself that there is somebody with integrity and common sense in the DOJ who believes in such things as consumer protection and a free market. Then I got this horrible news about a so called settlement with Microsoft which is a mockery of everything that justice stands for. The guilty should be punished that's justice, plain and simple.

This so called settlement with Microsoft, lets the guilty off with a slap on the wrist and lets him resume exactly what he has been doing before the DOJ's "justice" was handed down to them.

You want to know what I consider justice: the moment that I walk into a computer store everywhere in the US and the world to buy a PC, and the store clerk asks me: What kind of Operating System I want be loaded on my new PC, or whether I want it to be blank so that I can take it home and load whatever I want on it? At that precise moment, the DOJ should have fulfilled justice. Anything else, is a farce.
